"Mount Royal"

A Better Starched Collar

Sold Exclusively in Our Two Shops

Many men still prefer the starched white collar, on account of its cleaner and more dressy appearance.

In our "Mount Royal" we have produced a collar smart in appearance and of shape and height that will suit any man.

A leading feature of the "Mount Royal" is its ability to stand more than the average wear and laundering. The superior material and workmanship put into this collar will ensure it a more lasting life.

BIG THEATRE NIGHT CROWNED WITH UNPARALLELED SUCCESS

Graduates, Undergraduates and Professoriate Thronged St. Denis—Principal of University Attended—Show of Very High Standard—Credit Due to Various Executives Working Under A. J. Skelley—Performance Fitting Climax to Recorded Events of Session.

Last evening will long be remembered as the most successful and enthusiastic event of the past college year and from the moment that the first strain of "Hail! Alma Mater" rose from the organ until the last echo of the final McGill yell died out, no incident occurred which could discredit the time-honoured Red and White. And all present felt that the men who had on their shoulders the responsibility of the performance, and especially R. L. Hamilton and A. J. Skelly, might well feel the satisfaction of a "job well done." The whole-hearted support of the students, past and present, and also of the college authorities, was evinced by the attendance of twenty-five hundred, which applauded to the full each successive skit.

The huge theatre presented a scene which will long remain impressed on the minds of all those who attended the show; it was crowded from the orchestra to the uttermost parts of the "gods" with an unusually appreciative audience, composed of all the classes which make up a large university. In the boxes there were the members of the Faculty, accompanied in many cases by their friends; many of the graduates were also seen in these choice seats, and their sincere enthusiasm was a treat to behold. But what composed by far the greater part of the audience was the vast throng of undergraduates, both men and women, who filled many of the seats downstairs and the entire balcony.

The undergraduates have, of course, had as advisers a group of well-known professors, but almost all the effort has been put forth by the executive ability of the students. A month and a half ago a meeting was called for all those interested in the idea of a Theatre Night; the committee which was appointed then consisted of A. J. Skelly, as chairman, and an executive composed of Miss Gilmour, Miss Foster, E. W. Willard, N. D. Hall, B. Wilson, Woodman and Pratt. This committee has performed its duties faithfully under an advisory board, of whom Mlle. Touren, Dr. MacMillan, Dr. Villard, Prof. Lloyd, Prof. Sandwell, Dr. Lamb and R. L. Hamilton were members.

For the last two weeks, every day has seen some troupe or other holding a practice, and many of the actors have temporarily laid all other interests aside so that the utmost degree of perfection might characterize their skits. During this time, also, J. L. Browne, who is in charge of the scenic effects, has worked without ceasing. The results of these endeavours were so evident last night, that it would be futile to elaborate on them here at greater length. However, to the work of two very important men it is only fair to refer; Mr. W. A. Tremayne has had the entire charge of directing the rehearsals during the past few weeks and he has done a great deal to raise the standard of the show. Mr. Harold E. Key has been in charge of the effort to bring together in one orchestra a large number of outstanding student musicians who have been playing independently or in groups during the past session; after their unforgettable success of last evening, considerable could rightly be said in their praise; but much of the credt justifiably goes to their conductor for their worthy performance.

In giving a general review of the evening's entertainment, no more difficult task presents itself than to attempt to select the item or items which are deserving of the most praise. For clever acting the Physical Eds. appear to be noted, for high-class burlesque, the Meds perhaps distinguished themselves, while for a playlet abounding in humorous situations, "Behind the Beyond" would be the choice. In short, each act had its own particular merit, and fitted well into the place assigned to it. The singing of "Hail, Alma Mater" was very inspiring as an inaugural number, and was an admirable prelude for a glorious evening. The Athletic Review received the applause that all those who participated in it merited, and perhaps served to bring home to both graduates and undergraduates that McGill has been no laggard on the playing field during the past year. Les Perry deserves special mention for his unique performance, as his lightning caricatures were executed with dexterity and originalty.

Society Keeps Graduates in Touch With McGill

Activities of Society Benefit Alma Mater

Among the many messages to the student body received by the Daily yesterday is the following from J. W. Jeakins, secretary of the Graduate Society:

AFTER GRADUATION WHAT?

"In another six weeks it will be all over; then good-bye to Old McGill." These are the words of the unthinking Senior who expects to get his degree at the next convocation. But, for the thinking student about to graduate all is not over in so far as McGill is concerned. Rather is it that he is passing from one phase of university life into another. He is about to join the great body of McGill Graduates, members of which body have found their way into every corner of the Globe.

The unthinking one will say, "Ah, yes, but what has this to do with McGill?" Briefly this—It has come to be recognized that the graduates of the university are one of its chief sources of support. And the graduates have realized that they owe all the support they can give to their Alma Mater. In order that this large body of Alumni may have some organization for directing its activities, the Graduates' Society has been formed. This organization is managed by an executive committee in Montreal, with branches in nearly every province of the Dominion and in some of the larger cities of the United States. Its purpose is to lend assistance to the University and to keep graduates in touch with one another and with their Old School. The Society has direct connection with the Board of Governors of the University, as it now elects three representatives to that body. The McGill News is the graduates' official organ. This magazine, intended to keep the Alumni posted on what is going on at the University, and to keep them in touch with one another, is sent free to all members of the Society.

The Alumni organization has many activities such as the Graduates' Endowment Fund, which it is expected will become a valuable asset to the University, and the Graduates' Appointment Bureau, which, as was stated in yesterday's Daily, is not as aggressive as it could be were there suffi-

Distribution Will Commerce Some Time Next Week

"Old McGill" is out! The McGill Annual board received yesterday, balance of copies to come Monday, the first copy of the book, and according to the information the Daily was able to gather the book is up to every expectation of the Board. The members of the Board feel confident that the book will be well received by all the students. Complete arrangements for distribution have not been made yet, as it is not certain whether the rest of the books will arrive on Monday or Tuesday. The Annual Board Room on the second floor of the Union is being used as the centre of distribution and the books will be given out from there as soon as they arrive. Notices will be posted on the Notice Board of the Union when the actual distribution is to start. It might be well to mention here that only those who have subscribed for the book can obtain copies, as only the exact number of books have been printed to provide for the subscriptions obtained in the campaign last fall.

In view of the heavy cost of the Annual, which is around $5.50 a volume, and the fact that the book is being sold for $3.75, it has been decided to make a charge of 25 cents cash on each book to be paid on delivery. This extra charge is to cover the sales tax, which amounts to around 23 cents a volume.

It might also be mentioned that all students taking Chemistry in the University will have to pay cash for their copy of "Old McGill," as it has been the experience of previous Annual Boards that the Chemical students usual-

NOTED VISITOR PAID TRIBUTE TO COLLEGE

Col. A. E. Webb-Johnson Spoke to Medical Men

EMINENT SURGEON

Dean of Middlesex Medical School, England

McGill medical students were twice privileged to hear Colonel A. E. Webb-Johnson, C.B.E., D.S.O., F.R.C.S., Dean of the Middlesex Medical School, London, England, one of the leading younger surgeons of Great Britain. Dean Webb-Johnson addressed Dr. J. Alex. Hutchison's clinic in the senior year in Medicine at the Montreal General Hospital, and yesterday afternoon delivered a speech to the members of the Montreal Medical Chirurgical Society in the Hall of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Mansfield Street. He spoke on medical educative methods.

The President, Dr. T. P. Shaw, was in the chair, and introduced the speaker, whom he said did excellent service in the war, for which he received the C.B.E. and D.S.O. Dean Webb-Johnson was presented merely as "Mr. Webb-Johnson," as English surgeons do not hold the degree of M.D., but that of F.R.C.S., which does not carry the title of "doctor."

The speaker declared what a pleasure and an honour it was to address such a distinguished audience of Montreal physicians, whom he said, were known far and wide. He added that he deemed it equal pleasure and honour to speak to students, with whom the future rested.

At the commencement, Mr. Webb-Johnson said that he firmly believed that it was the duty of a medical school not to load the student with a mass of details, but to make sure that he grasped the principles. To illustrate this strong point he showed a number of plates on anatomy. He stated that the unior assistants in anatomy and physiology should be drawn from men who are going to practice medicine and surgery. Regarding clinical teaching, the speaker said that there was a marked tendency nowadays for the student to establish too much of the diagnosis on the results of laboratory research. "It is essential," he said, "to conduct a careful study of the patient's symptoms, and laboratory aid should not be sought until after this study. To lay emphasis on this point, Mr. Webb-Johnson discussed the diseased kidney, saying that it should be dealt with in the early stages. "There are many people living in this world without brains," he added in a humor-

MONTREAL, FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1923

A BIG NIGHT—AND A BIG YEAR

The last big night is over. McGill has its first official celebration in the form of a Theatre Night for many years, and a glorious affair it proved to be. The Faculty and undergraduates, with a goodly representation of the graduate body, were there to view the presentations of their Alma Mater, and it is a safe assumption that all were completely satisfied. It was fitting that a session of undoubted merit, marked, as it was, by well earned success in every form of college activity, made memorable by the active interest of the students in university affairs, distinguished by the efficient administration of the past Council, should be ushered out in the same spirit as that in which it was passed. The McGill Theatre Night was enthusiastic, joyous and typical of all that our University stands for—and so has been the session of 1922-23.

The end of the term approaches. Today is the day set by the majority for the commencement of a keen campaign to pass the final examinations. From now till the end McGill will be serious minded, and sedate; her frivolities will be few, and her toil great, for whatever the coming of Spring may signify to the carefree young man of whom we hear so much, to the college undergraduate it means a time of trial and assiduous effort.

The "Daily" will appear for the last time today, until the publication of the Convocation Issue about the first of May. In the past year it has been the honest endeavour of the staff to serve their college by placing before the readers of the "Daily" a journal that would be representative of the Student Body, that would give prominence to what was deserving of prominence, that would support what was deserving of support, and that would criticize, as constructively as possible, what was deemed to merit that criticism. With the printing of this, the last regular edition, with the sending to press of the last copy, the work for the year is practically completed. That we have not fallen too far short of the goal which we set for our achievement is the earnest wish of the editors of the McGill Daily.

OUR PRINCIPAL

The letter appearing in this issue of the "Daily" from the Principal of McGill, is but another evidence, if such be needed, of the never-tiring concern and the ever-vigilant eye of Sir Arthur Currie over the trend of events at the University. During his tenure of his office the Principal has yet to fail to respond to an undergraduate appeal for support, or for advice. His services have always been at the call of the students and his attendance at various undergraduate functions, no matter how numerous they might be, has never been refused unless under unavoidable circumstances. The students of McGill are at once proud and privileged to have as their leader, Sir Arthur Currie.

ous vein, "but none without kidneys."

Concluding his address, his remarks being greeted with frequent applause, Mr. Webb Johnson paid high tribute to McGill, and said that the immortal message of Colonel John McCrae was an inspiration in England in peace as well as in war. "The future of this great medical school, of this great university," he declared, "rests with the students of today. I sincerely hope that the leaders of the years to come will be from these young men I have met at McGill."

A glowing allusion was made to Sir William Osler. His final word was an exhortation for the Faculty of Medicine at McGill to keep its present freedom.

A very hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Dr. F. J. Shepherd, former Dean of Medicine, who said what a privilege it had been to hear Dean Webb-Johnson. Dr. Shepherd said that he was firmly convinced that the methods of diagnosis were now too mechanical4 Dr. J. Alex. Hutchison, C.B.E., seconded the motion of appreciation. Accepting the vote ofthanks, Mr. Webb-Johnson expressed his gratitude for the great kindness shown him while in Montreal, and that it had been a pleasure to renew many of his war-time friendships.

Interviewed by the "Daily," Dean Webb-Johnson said that he found a spirit at McGill second to none, and that the Faculty of Medicine compared favorably with any medical school he had ever visited. He paid very great tribute to the distinguished doctors of McGill, and to those of Canada in general. Concerning Dr. Banting and Dr. Best of Toronto, the recent discoverers of insulin, Mr. Webb-Johnson expressed regret at the recent decision made by the House of Commons that they would be ineligible for honours at the hands of the King. "Canada," he declared, "should hasten to confer a mark of distinction upon them before any outside nation does so. Such marvellous achievement should not pass without high honour."

Last evening, in company with Sir Arthur Currie, and Brig.-General H. S. Birkett, C.B., M.D., Mr. Webb-Johnson witnessed the McGill Theatre Night at the St. Denis Theatre. He has lately been touring medical centres in the United States, and will soon go back to England, to return at an early date he hoped, for his second visit to this side of the Atlantic.

PERTINENT WORDS ADDRESSED TO STUDENTS BY THE PRINCIPAL

Sir Arthur Currie Gives Timely Advice—Heartily in Accord with Every Plan for Welfare of Rugby at McGill—Confident of Future.

The following reached the "Daily" office last evening from the Principal of the University:

To the Editor,
McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—I have been much interested in the letters by Jack Lewis and Billy Nicholson on the Dugby situation at McGill. Their letters should be thoughtfully read and carefully considered by us all, as both are old graduates and old players as well. I am neither the one nor the other, but I yield not to them nor to anyone else in my desire to see McGill's team win.

In the year 1922-23 old McGill has done extraordinarily well in sporting events. Our splendid athletes have upheld McGill's honour and prestige and have been first in the following intercollegiate trials: the track events, tennis, boxing, wrestling, basketball, water polo, winter sports and gymnastic feats. This is a remarkably fine record, and every honour is due and is accorded to competitors, coaches and managers.

True, we lost the hockey championship to Toronto and the rugby to Queens, but we have no reason to be downhearted. In both we were so decisively beaten as to leave no doubt as to our opponents' superiority. We have no "kick" and McGill men know how to take a defeat as well as a victory. That is the essence of true sportsmanship, and if there is one thing more than another which gives us pride in our representatives, it is the qualty of their sportsmanship. I know of many evidences of that true sportsmanship which shall live in my heart long after the 50—5 score is forgotten.

But the Rugby situation calls for heart-searching. Many reasons for our failure are advanced. We are told that lack of supports by graduates and by the teaching staffs is one of the principal causes of our downfall. I don't altogether agree with such a contention, and coaching have been given to the senior team in proportion to the time, attention and coaching received by junior teams. I have been told that junior teams cannot be maintained because, unless players can catch the first team in their first season, they turn to some other form of sport. When I asked why this should be the case the reply has been that men play more for the limelight, the glamor, the applause, the hero worship that goes with the senior team than for the fun of the game itself. If this is true it reveals an unwholesome attitude towards sport. It savors of the professional rather than the college spirit. It is not playing the game for the game's sake as all manly men should do. I, for one, do not believe that McGill men will lay themselves open to such a charge.

Again I have heard college authorities and graduates condemned for not inducing more ready-made rugby players to come to McGill. Naturally we are pleased when a newcomer has athletic as well as academic talents, but McGill must leave a different impression on the mind of the world than that given to a distinguished Chinaman who visited New Haven. "Writing home to China he said, "Here there is a great athletic club called Yale. When it rains the members read." I don't like such ready-made teams, nor do I think a proper spirited student body would welcome them. What are the inducements to be held out to these men? None, with my approval, but the honour of playing for McGill. Any other would mean professionalism and the colleges, for the sake of amateur sport so greatly jeopardized at the present time, must keep their skirts scrupulously clean.

Now, as to the lack of support by teaching staffs, I know an impression exists that some faculties are not sympathetic towards sports, particularly Rugby. I give the student body a sincere assurance that such an impression is not justified. Last Autumn rugby players asked to be excused at four o'clock each afternoon during the season. When the list came to be examined less than ten per cent were really asking for special consideration. I am quite sure that such is the desire of the professor to help the team that he is willing to arrange extra tuition for the men who miss classes after 4 p.m.

It has also been suggested to me that rugby players should be excused from fulfilling the requirements of the Department of Physical Education. I do not approve of such a suggestion for many reasons, but let me mention two, —First, there is the broad principle that a rugby player is not entitled to any more privileges than any other student. It would be unfair and undemocratic to have one set of regulations for him and another set for the remainder of the student body. My second reason is that rugby players, probably more than any other set of men, require to keep in training the year round. Two months only in the football season will not do, and let us be frank and honest and admit that this very lack of training, this neglect to keep in condition even in the season, hasd lessened our chance of success in the past.

But I have said enough about the excuses. There has been too much time wasted on them already. We can win in Rugby as we have in the other sports, but we must build up our team from the bottom and on a solid foundation. There comes a time in the history of every team when it must recognize this fact and that time is here for McGill. We may not win the championship next year, but let us not worry about that. I hope the team will not take such a statement too much to heart. First, let us have at least two hundred men out next fall playing rugby, determined to train faithfully and to obey the training rules, to work hard and intelligently to master the game, not with their eyes altogether on making the senior team at once, but with the fixed purpose of giving the management sufficient trained and disciplined material from which a team fit to represent McGill can be chosen. Let us permit the bona fide players to leave their classrooms at four o'clock to repair to the practice grounds, which I think should be artificially lighted up to six o'clock. Mere hangers-on or shrimshankers must not be tolerated, and it is to be definitely understood that players are to make up, with the help of teachers, the time taken from classroom work. It will be a hard grind for everyone, but it is worth while. The rest of us must loyally support the management and the team. Some may prefer another kind of rugby or another system of coaching, but for the time being this is McGill's game and McGill's system. That is enough.

In conclusion, let me say that I look to the future with much confidence. The darkest hour is just before the dawn. I have seen McGill men in harder places and under greater handicaps, yet they won out. At the beginning of the war Canadians as soldiers were very, very raw. Yet by taking all lessons to heart, by studying closely their enemy, by developing tactics to deal with varying situations, by creating new organizations to meet changed conditions, by hard training, by stern self-imposed discipline, by good leadership, they demonstrated their undoubted and freely acknowledged superiority over every foe. McGill's Rugby team can do the same, but only by the same means.

I understand this is the last issue—except Convocation issue—of the Daily for the year 1922-23. It has been a good year and the Daily has done well, contributing in no small degree to whatever success and progress McGill can claim in that period. My thanks and good wishes are freely tendered to its staff and management.

Yours faithfully,
A. W. CURRIE, Principal.

DOINGS OF McGILL TEAM IN THE REALM OF SPORT

Basketball, Track, Tennis, B.W. & F., Water Polo, Gymnastics and Winter Carnival Won by Red and White —Other City Titles Fall to College Team.

RUGBY

The 1922 football season at McGill, in terms of victories and defeats, could hardly be termed a successful one. The team was twice defeated by Varsity, and suffered a duo of setbacks at the hands of Queen's delegation, while the Syracuse University eleven, on its own ground had much the better of the argument with Coach Shaughnessy's men, in a contest played under American rules.

The team throughout the season was followed by the proverbial "jinx." Jeff Russel, a mainstay in the backfield, was lost through graduation, and when 'Boo" Anderson left college McGill lost one of the finest allround performers ever seen on a college gridiron. "Don" Baillie, quarterback and captain of the team, found his college work too pressing, and when he failed to turn out Douglas Ambridge was chosen to fill the captaincy. The Red and White was then without the services of an experienced quarterback. Hard luck followed the squad when Philpotts, sterling halfback, in the opening contest with Varsity at Toronto, incurred a serious internal injury and was obliged to retire for the season. Until his injury "Phil' proved the most effective man on both sides. He gained consistently through the line and around the ends, and on the defence broke up play after play in clever fashion.

The following week Cyril Flanagan was added to the injured list when he wrenched his ankle in the first half of the Queen's game, and was not available for any of the remaining league contests. Shag was then forced to work with an almost entirely green backfield, while on the line he had very few experienced players.

McGill lost to U. of T. by the score of 20—2 in a contest in which the Blue and White was forced to show everything it had. The following week the Red and White were hosts to the most powerful Queen's representation in history and surprised everyone by their stubborn and splendid resistance. Eight of the visitors' points, a touchdown and a field goal, were the direct result of the veriest kind of flukes, and the Presbyterians gained a 12—1 victory. They were outplayed on the line and in the punting department, but the open field running of Batstone and Laidley was too much for the home team. The McGill players, minus Philpotts and Flanagan, had an off day in the return game with Varsity, and went down to a 51—0 defeat in a very hectic contest. After this contest "Don" Baillie joined the squad and turned in a good game in Kingston, when Queens again proved vitcorious by the score of 20—10.

For the final game of the season the McGill team travelled to Syracuse and fell victim to the powerful attack of the Orange eleven in a 32—0 contest. The score, however, does not in the least indicate the respective strengths of the teams. Every one of the five touchdowns came as the result of the inability of the McGill players to solve the forward pass attack. The home team threw the pigskin around almost at will. The McGill attack was especially strong, the Red and White amassing a total of 12 first downs more than any other two teams could do against Syracuse, and the New York Staters faced such rivals as Pittsburg, Navy, Nebraska, Brown and Colgate. The Americans were much impressed by the visiting team, who immediately after the contest were offered a game for next season.

Among the new comers who excelled were Campbell Cope, who played with the Juniors the year before, and was used by Shag at flying wing. "Art" Manson, of basketball fame, who was developed into a reliable middle wing and an effective line plunger. Both these men return next year and should add considerably to the strength of the squad.

In the backfield Coach Shaughnessy started out with Philpotts, Flanagan and "Bones" Little as halfbacks—the latter having been shifted from flying wing. Carrol alternated between quarter and half, while Eddie Crain at times piloted the team and also performed at the flying wing positions. Manson was used as a halfback and "Cam'" Cope playing flying wing against Varsity, turned in an excellent performance.

"Doug. "McGregor, next year's captain, played a consistently good game at centre. At the inside wing positions there were Gamble, Foss and Woodruff, a newcomer who had had some seasoning on the Yale Freshman squad. At middle, there was Ambridge, Manson and Walsh, an Iowan. Shag tried out a number of men on the ends. There was Jack Easson, Charlie Robertson, Fife, Dyer and Selby Cope, who turned out late in the season and showed up well in the Syracuse contest.

The squad will be hard hit by graduation, Ambridge, Baillie, Flanagan, Carroll, Crain and Foss having turned in their last performance for the Red and White.

Prospects for next year are, however, fairly bright. The team will have a very efficient coaching staff and the graduates who are now taking a keen interest in football are obtaining a training house where the players will live and have all their meals together.

Financially the season was a success, the club having made a net profit of about $2,000.

HOCKEY

Whatever else may be said about the McGill Hockey season just finished it cannot be termed a failure. Although it is true that the team was unsuccessful in its attempt to secure the Intercollegiate title, the season has been productive of a great amount of gratification to the fans in many ways. The American tour in the Christmas holidays was markedly succesful, with a record of two-thirds of the games played across the border won by the Red and White team. Records show that, excluding the game with the Montreal City All-Star team at the end of the season, the team had won a majority of the games played. Including this game the team broke even on the season's play. Out of a total of twelve games played six were won and six were marked down as defeats.

One of the achievements of the team was the brilliant victory over the champion Varsity sextet on their visit here. This featb rought joy to the hearts of the fans, as it was the Red and White team's first victory over a Varsity hockey team in several years.

Through the strong recommendation and sincere backing of McGill, University of Montreal was this year admitted to the Intercollegiate Hockey Union, and in the last contest between the Frenchmen and McGill, the University of Montreal team sprang a surprise and by defeating the Red and White eliminated all chance of this year's hockey championship coming to McGill.

Perhaps the greatest "find" of the season was "Slim" Morris, in the goal position. At the first practices of the season he showed his superiority over all the other applicants, and has proved one of the most sensational goalies in McGill hockey history. Time and again it has been only his uncanny skill in turning away "hot ones" that has kept the Red and White team from defeat.

To Captain Cyril "Flin" Flanagan goes the lion's share of credit in the scoring department of the team. Playing his last year of Intercollegiate hockey "Flin" gave repeated exhibitions of the highest brand of hockey—professional or amateur. Combined with this his pluck and capability in leadership rounded out a list of stellar qualities which will make the genial athlete live in the minds of McGill hockey fans for many years to come.

"Pinkie" Morrison, by returning to McGill raised the hopes of a large body of fans depressed by the inability of "Matty" Dineen, of last year's team, to represent his Alma Mater on the ice. Both he and McNaughton, the other regular wing man, turned in consistent and praiseworthy performances in their respective positions, and combined with Flanagan to make one of the smoothest working forward lines in Canadian hockey.

Dempsey and McGerrigle, in the defence positions, proved an almost impregnable barrier to the rushes of many McGill opponents. Dempsey especially, possessed a strong body check, which he used effectively at almost every opportunity.

Of the subs., perhaps Bell was the shining light, and earned his large block "B." As "Bobby" is in his first year, he was granted his large class numerals.

Lynch and Monroe, of Dent. '24, and Wyse, of Science '24, completed a list of substitutes which when necessary, could display a brand of hockey little below that shown by the regular team.

The team opened its season by a trip to Boston in the last few days of December where they met three strong teams of that city. On the 28th they met the Boston College six, and were defeated 3—1, but avenged their defeat by victories in the next two contests. The Boston Hockey Club were defeated by a 5—1 score, and by a runaway in the last period the Victorias went down to defeat by a 9—3 score.

On January 2nd, after a close struggle, Princeton succumbed to the Canadian team by a 3—2 score, but on the next night the Westminster team of New Haven, Conn., won a 9—3 victory over the Red and White. This completed the American invasion.

The Intercollegiate results are well known to the students. Out of the six games played two were lost to Queens, one to Varsity and one to the University of Montreal. Although this might appear to show marked superiority on the part of the other teams, this most decidedly was not the case. All the games were won or lost by a margin of one or two goals, and often overtime periods had to be played. This coupled with the fact that the team's personnel was partly new shows why our standing in the series was not a better one.

TRACK

The past season may well be called one of the most successful that the McGill Track Team has ever had. On October 20th last the Intercollegiate meet was held at the Molson Stadium, and when the last rays of the sun had disappeared over the rim of Mount Royal the Red and White track men were declared winners by the decisive score of 83—39. The meet this year resolved itself into a dual contest between McGill and Toronto, as Queens had been unable to send a team down, and though in the first stages of the meet things were fairly even the McGill men romped away and with the confidence inspired by success piled up a good lead. This is the fourth consecutive victory for the Track team and the thirteenth win since the Intercollegiate Track meets were instituted. Great credit is due Coach F. M. Van Wagner, who has successfully trained the team during the past three years. His methods have resulted in the development of a well-rounded out team, and remarkable progress has been made by some of the individual members of the team, who have become athletes of no mean ability.

The outstanding feature of the meet was the equalling of the Intercollegiate record in the 100 yards, when "Cece" Hay ran the century in the fast time of 10 seconds flat, and the setting of a new mark in the high jump by Roland Kennedy, who cleared the bar at five feet eight and seven-eighths inches. J. L. Sebert and F. Halbaus, who set the previous mark in the 100 yards, were present at the meet and congratulated the big man from the coast on his performance. The McGill men made a total of nine firsts, nine seconds and six thirds, besides winning the relay race.

One of the greatest problems that will face the team next year is that of filling the places of the men who graduate this year, and will leave a great gap in the ranks of the track men. Hay and Johnson have been the mainstays of the sprinting section of the team for four years now, but several new men notable among whom is Patterson, should be able to turn in creditable performances for the Red and White next year. Patterson ran the 100 in very good time at the Freshman-Sophomore meet, and with training should prove to be a real winner. Hamilton and Legg have been running the half and the mile almost neck and neck for some years now, and have been among the most consistent point getters on the team. Their absence will be greatly felt next fall, but Alexander, Walker and some of the other newer men at the game can be depended on to come across with the goods with a little more experience. Realizing the need of the younger men for training the Track Club last year started the practice of holding indoor track practices along in the spring. These practices have been revived again this year, and they provide a good opportunity for men of latent track ability to get some good pointers on the game from such men as Van Wagner and the older members of the team who generally turn out and give all the help they can in coaching aspirants.

A considerable part of the success of the team may be attributed to the very efficient work of Manager "Reg." Henry and his assistant, "Phil" Gross. These two men were indefatigable in their efforts on behalf of the Track Club and the arrangements for the Intercollegiate Meet were so thoroughly looked after that many of the officials remarked on the efficient manner in which the events were run off.

Harrier

If there is one club at college which requires its members to have perseverance, it is the Harrier Club. It offers but few opportunities for the average man to win distinction of insignia. It does afford an unparalleled chance for a person to develop his powers of endurance and determination. Those who realize its benefits are usually keen supporters throughout their college days.

Although the Harriers did not carry off the honours at last year's Intercollegiate meet at Montreal, yet the Red and White team occupied second place to Toronto, being followed by the Royal Military College, Queen's did not enter a team.

Among the graduating classes are several harriers, being notably R. L. Hamilton, who has occupied every place on the Harrier Club executive in the past, and has won as many Intercollegiate medals; while from the 1922 harrier team graduate G. Stephen, R. E. Legg, C. Champion and N. Egerton, leaving R. H. Wiggins and T. Kerr as a nucleus for next year's team.

All who intend turning out with either of these two clubs next season are advised by the executive to take full advantage of the indoor track practices, and of the privileges which the Stadium affords during the summer, and especially in September.

BASKETBALL

The McGill Senior Basketball Team brought home two championships when they went through their schedule in the City League without a defeat, and worked their way up from the cellar in the Intercollegiate League.

The McGill team won fourteen of the twenty games played. Of those lost, four were dropped on the tour made in the United States, the others were lost to 'Varsity and Queen's at the beginning of the Intercollegiate series.

Among the victories outside the two leagues are the victories against the Trojan team, the city champions of St. John, N.B.

The Crescent A.C. team of Brooklyn, N.Y., also suffered defeat at the hands of the McGill quintette. In the early part of the tour in the States, McGill lost to the Universities of Vermont and Philadelphia.

After losing the first two games in the Intercollegiate series, the Red and White staged a come-back, and created a triple tie for the championship. The play off was held at Ottawa, Toronto drawing the bye in the series. McGill earned the right to play 'Varsity by her defeat of Queen's the first night, and putting up a sterling exhibition against the Blue and White, brought another championship home.

McGill scored 86 points in the three games played against Toronto, while the Blue and White made 78 points in these contests. Against Queen's McGill scored 103 in a similar number of contests while the Tri-colour made 78. In the twenty games played, McGill were able to mark up 643 points to 544 scored by opposing teams. The last nine games played were all won by McGill.

Much of the credit for the year's success goes to Coach Van Wagner, whose untiring efforts made so brilliant a record possible. For all the games played during the season, Manager Eadie has been responsible. An appreciation of the work done by Eadie was made in a letter which appeared in the Daily some time ago.

Led by Captain Manson, who played in every game of the season, the team developed a fighting spirit which more than once carried them to the winning column. Mendelssohn played all but two games, and has developed an accuracy of shooting which should serve the team well next year. Turpel and Little alternated in every game. Both have shown considerable improvement over their early season style, and will come back in good shape for next year's team. Errol Amaron, the star forward, has proven an excellent partner for the veteran Crain. Amaron and Crain together are in a very large measure responsible for McGill's victories.

Crain is the only man who will not return next year, and the team will be considerably weakened by his loss next year.

Philpott, Hilton and Blumenstein have also played with the team this year, though they were not used much, but showed up well in the games in which they took part.

The baskets and free throws scored by the individuals are listed below:

SWIMMING

University of Toronto won the Intercollegiate swimming meet, and McGill, by staging a strong come-back, captured the water polo honours. This, in brief, is the review of the Intercollegiate swimming season, but when the details are given, the story changes from a mere cold statement of fact to a history of exciting moments, thrills, hair-line finishes and remarkable team play. And when all is told, there is no one who can say that the Ded and White aquatic stars had an unsuccessful season.

The first Intercollegiate fixture was the annual swimming meet, held in the Hart House Plunge, Toronto, on Friday, February 16th. The wearers of the Blue and White presented a remarkable, all round aggregation and carried away the honours of the evening by a lead of seventeen points. They had a well balanced squad; were strong in all departments, and it may be safely said that they were never seriously threatened. This, however, did not detract from the interest of the contests, for practically every event was a touch-and-go affair, with the decision always in the balance.

The one obvious exception to this was found in the diving section, where the U. of T. presented an invincible front, with the McGill entry weak. Van Valkenburg, the Toronto star, treated the gallery to an exceptional exhibition of difficult dives, with his team mate, Wood, running a close second. Bethel, the only opponent, turned in a good evening's work, but did not have the training or the experience of the other two men.

In the speed department McGill was superior, with George Vernot, the McGill captain, leading the way. He won the fifty, the hundred and the two hundred yard events, piling up fifteen points for the visiting squad. Vernot was the outstanding figure of the meet, and was the backbone of the Red and White team. He was ably seconded by Ross, in the above three events.

The hundred yard breast stroke was one of the thrillers, with FitzGerald, of Toronto, making a sensational battle for first place. Findlay and Laidley placed second and third, both for McGill.

Waldron, the Toronto plunger, broke the Intercollegiate record by making 72 ft. 3 in. The U. of T. quartet also lowered the record in the relay. Vernot cut time off the hundred and two hundred yard events, and his records will probably remain for a long time to come, unless he lowers them himself during the remainder of his college career.

The final points for the evening were: U. of T., 41½; McGill, 24½.

WATER POLO

The Intercollegiate water polo championship was decided by the total score of a home and home series. Toronto broke away for a three goal lead in the first game, and the prospects were dark for the McGill team. In the home game, however, the Red and White tank men completely outclassed their opponents and kept the championship, by a score of 7—1.

The opening contest took place the day after the swimming meet in Toronto, and playing in an unfamiliar tank, the McGill squad was sent down to defeat by a score of 4—1. Vernot was the only man to tally for the Red and White, and Toronto undoubtedly had the edge of the play. They had a strong line-up, and the McGill offensive was unable to get past Bell, in the nets.

Conditions were reversed, however, when the U. of T. played here on the following Saturday. The visitors found themselves in a strange pool and were completely outplayed from the opening whistle. The home team showed a wonderful brand of combination, and scored six times, with the Blue and White water stars drawing a zero. Jim Ross, playing forward, won the honours of the day by putting the ball into the Toronto nets on four occasions.

By virtue of this victory, the Intercolegiate championship in water polo remains at McGill for another year at least.

The Toronto squad will be considerably weakened next season by the graduation of many of the outstanding swimmers, but there is plenty of good material to fill in. The McGill team should remain practically intact, although the loss of Grahame-Browne, captain and goalkeeper, will be greatly felt.

The teams, on both occasions, consisted of the following players:

Toronto: Bell, Waldron, Conklin, Reilly (capt.), Wood, Wells, Harston, FitzGerald, Webster.

McGill: Graham-Browne (capt.), Anson, Laidley, Ross, Vernot, Kyle, Vickerson and Bethel.

In City League circles the McGill swimmers had a good season, but lost the championship honours in the play-off with M.S.C. The intermediates also played City League, but were unsuccessful in the annual race for honours.

B. W. & F.

The end of the sporting season at McGill has found the Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club once more intercollegiate champions, and although this is the ultimate goal toward which the activities of the organization are directed, its success in other ways is unquestioned. Not only has the number of entries shown a very material increase over former years and the attendance at practices been more regular, but the exhibitions put on at various times have elicited a much greater student interest.

Ernie Robinson, who has just completed his second season as McGill boxing coach, deserves a great deal of credit for the creditable showing at Kingston. No less worthy of praise is George Smith, the wrestling instructor, whose proteges practically cleaned up the Intercollegiate meet. The fencers, although they won no championships, ably upheld the honour of the Alma Mater.

With the close of the football season B. W. and F. activities immediately became prominent. Two 2-hour practices per week were arranged for each of the boxing and wrestling classes at Molson Hall, while in the Diocesan College the fencers practised their art under the excellent tutelage of G. Raimondi several times a week.

During the college year the club has provided several excellent tournaments. As these were all elimination contests some especially fine bouts were witnessed by the fans. This season ring and mat artists made three trips to Ste. Anne's, there to entertain twice the "Aggies" and once the soldiers of Ste. Anne's Military Hospital. At the McGill Union two huge tournaments were held. In the first of these McGill's best met the representatives of the various boxing and wrestling clubs in Montreal and came out victorious. In the second the eliminations for the Intercollegiate series were made and some hard battles were witnessed.

The crowning success of the year in the ring and mat game was the winning of the Intercollegiate championship by McGill at Kingston. Although the boxers and fencers did very well, the real heroes of the day were the wrestlers, who won consistently enough to outpoint the entrants of 'Varsity and Queen's.

At Annapolis also the McGill men acquitted themselves creditably. Wilson, Shackell, Brewer, Snow and Abbey left behind them a reputation for gameness and fighting spirit that will be a source of pride to every McGill man.

The art of fencing has had a larger activity among the students this year than for several years past. Under a very capable instructor and with considerable new equipment purchased by the Students' Council the club has made considerable progress. Two bouts were staged during the year and proved very interesting to the spectators and the skill displayed was such that the instructor could be proud of the result of his coaching.

There has been an immense amount of work connected with the club but every tournament has been highly successful, the Intercollegiate championship has been won, and many students have materially benefitted.

SKI AND SHOWSHOE

The advent of soft weather sees the close of what was possibly the most successful year in the annals of the McGill Ski and Snowshoe Club. Certainly, never has there been so much enthusiasm shown in the sport around the University, a great deal of which is possibly due to the excellent ski-ing conditions which have been prevalent throughout the winter.

The club was organized, not as a social organization, but to further the interests of the sport among the students, and more especially to enter into competitions throughout the winter months with neighboring colleges across the border. This year the latter point was much more evident than ever before, the college being represented by teams at no less than three international intercollegiate meets.

The first competition of the year was the college week inter-sports competition held under the auspices of the Sno Birds Club of Lake Placid. This meet was held during the week between Christmas and New Year, and the contending teams were competing for the President Harding Cup. Seven colleges were represented by teams, followers of the sport coming from Dartmouth, Middlebury, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale, McGill, University of Vermont, New Hampshire State, and the University of Wisconsin. Six men represented McGill, all of whom acquitted themselves quite splendidly. Dartmouth, for the second time, came out ahead with 25 points as against 17 accumulated by the Red and White, while Yale and Middlebury tied for third place, each with a total of 8 points. This showing made by McGill was excellent, when one considers the fact that no skaters accompanied the team, while Dartmouth won several points through the ability of Hennessey, their star performer along that line.

During the month of January an inter-faculty meet was held in which upwards of fifty skiers competed, their ability ranging from the embryo to the finished stage. Science came out on top with 25 points to her credit, with Arts-Commerce a close second with 19 points. Law accumulated 9 points, while Medicine managed to tally to the extent of 1 point. Early in the month an invitation was received from Gorham to send jumpers to their winter carnival. Two McGill men represented the college, Art Gravel succeeding in copping second honours.

The week-end of February 10 found eleven men again invading American territory, in an effort to avenge the defeat inflicted by Dartmouth in the early part of the season. Eliminations had been held earlier in the month and those who succeeded in winning a place on the team are as follows: O. Leslie, A. Gravel, R. Whittall, E. Sherrard, D. Anderson, W. Macklaier, R. Wade, P. Waite, G. Grimson, W. Mitchell, T. Brown and H. Starke. Unfortunately Brown was unable to make the trip, due to illness, but was heard from at later meets.

Dartmouth again drew the large end of the score with 28 1-2 points, with McGill close behind with 24. This carnival was the first half of the competition held by the Eastern International Intercollegiate Ski Association for the cup donated by F. R. Whittall, Sci. '12, which was given for the team taking the greatest points in two meets annually, one being held in the United States and the other in Canada. The following week the American colleges visited Montreal in order to take part in the second half of the competition. With a lead of 4 1-2 points Dartmouth were quite confident of victory, but when the smoke cleared from the field of battle, the Red and White team were found to have made up previous losses and accumulated a substantial lead on her nearest rival, the final score in points being 65 for McGill, with Dartmouth following with 43 1-2.

The final competition of the year took place during the latter part of February at Lake Placid, the Sno Birds Club again being hosts. R. Wade distinguished himself in winning the 25-mile cross-country race, and T. Brown won second honours in the 7-mile race. These races were open to men other than those attending college, and the wins are more creditable for that reason.

Much of the success of the efforts of the club is due to the splendid work of the retiring executive, headed by A. O. Leslie as president. His duties will be carried on next year by R. Whittall, who, as the champion all-round skier of the college, will greatly further the interests of the sport. He will be assisted by H. Smith and G. Grimson as vice-presidents, looking after the skiing and snowshoeing interests respectively, A. Starke as secretary-treasurer, and Gravel, Waite, Brown and Anderson as faculty representatives.

TENNIS

One of the first championships to be won during the past season by the wearers of the Red and hite was that which was brought home by McGill tennis players, after the invasion of Kingston, on October 19th and 20th. With Crocker outstanding, the players from Canada's metropolis constituted a formidable aggregation, with the result that at the end of the second and final day's play, the Montreal racket men had gained the honours, both in the singles and the doubles. University of Toronto, Queens and the Royal Military College were the other competitors in the annual tournament, but though they all put up strong fights, they were unable to defeat the superior court men from the home of the Red and White.

At the end of the first day's play McGill was in the lead with five points. Toronto was close second with four; Queens had three and R.M.C. was in the cellar with a zero. All the games were closely fought, with Crocker, Morrice and Douglas winning for McGill. By two decisive victories over Toronto and R.M.C. representatives Bud. Thomas of Queens, went into the semi-finals.

The second day's play was full of thrills and some brilliant exhibitions of volleying, driving, smashing and back line play were given by the various contestants.

In the semi-finals in the singles, Thomas, of Queens, won from Larkin, of Toronto, in two out of three sets, while Crocker defeated his team mate, Morrice.

In the doubles, Morrice and Douglas sent Hunten and Gill, of R.M.C., down to defeat, allowing them only one game in the two sets. Williams and Phillips, of Toronto, downed Sladen and Gunn, of R.M.C., by taking two decisive sets.

The finals in the doubles were not played at Kingston, as all the contestants were McGill men, but the decision was reached on the local courts, with Morris and Douglas winning from Crocker and Ramsay.

In the finals for the single honours, Bud Thomas, the stalwart Queen's player, was matched against Crocker, the Red and White star. The result was a battle heroic, with both players setting a furious pace, but with the Montreal man having the edge of the play. The first set went to Crocker 6—4, but Thomas evened up accounts by taking the next, winning ten out of eighteen games. The third set was taken by Crocker, who allowed his opponent only three games, but the score was again equalled when the Limestone City player won 6—2. The final set, and the Intercollegiate championship, went to Crocker, however, when he took six out of seven games.

The local prospects for the coming season are very bright, as many of the outstanding players of last year's squad will be returning to their Alma Mater, and theer is also plenty of new material among the younger ranks. Remembering these facts, the prospects for again holding the championship are bright, and it is hoped that this autumn will witness a repetition of the success that has been attained during the past four seasons.

MOCK PARLIAMENT

Inter-class, Inter-faculty and Inter-university Debates

The Literary and Debating Society, probably not known under that heading so well as by its two main adjuncts—the Mock Parliament and Debating—has completed an active sessions' work under the able leadership of Bert Tremaine as president, R. K. Jones vice-president, H. O'Hagan secretary, and T. R. Winslow as I.U.D.L. representative, and Ferd. Teroux, for which its reward has been the hearty support of the students, and a feeling by them that it has served its purpose excellently.

The Mock Parliament has shown a marked improvement over that of the 1921-22 session, by the attendance at it as well as by the keen interest and friendly rivalry manifested by the members of opposing parties, in its organization and conduction. At the first meeting of the executive of the "Lit." at the beginning of the year, it was stressed that the prime object of the Mock Parliament was to encourage impromptu speaking. This purpose seems to have been successful to an extent exceeding what was hoped for; the more so because radical changes took place in the parties in power, ranging from Progressives at the beginning of the session, Constitutionals at the second Parliament, and Coalitionists at the final. These changes brought to the fore an almost totally new line-up of ministers and members in each case who had the opportunity of exercising and improving their oratorical abilities in support of their policies against a very stern opposition.

It was somewhat uncertain at first whether a Mock Parliament of a serious nature, of a burlesque type, or a combination of both, would serve the best purpose and yet retain the interest of the students in it. The latter type was adopted as it was thought that a Mock Parliament, as evident by its name, could not be of an essentially serious nature. This decision seems to have been a wise one judging by the excellent results obtained.

The systematic organization of debating teams in the University has been an extensive undertaking and even a more important feature of the activities of the "Lit." than the Parliament. While the speaking at the Parliament was usually of the nature of debate, it differed from that of debating teams in that it was impromptu. The members of these teams had a much wider scope for the use of knowledge obtained by a study of the subject under debate.

In choosing the men who would represent McGill in the Inter-University Debating League, a method of elimination was used, giving to every student who desired it an opportunity of trying out for the team. The eliminations started with inter-class debating, then followed into-faculty, and finally intercollegiate debating. It was so arranged that in the Intercollegiate series that two teams from McGill should debate with Toronto and Queen's on the same day, one team going to Kingston, the other remaining, meeting Toronto at home. The latter team, consisting of Batshaw, Law '24, and Clark, Theol., lost to the Toronto men. To the other one, composed of Penrose and Everett, both of Arts '25, goes the highest honour in debating circles by their win of the Queen's men.

INDOOR BASEBALL

Fresh indication of the fact that Indoor Baseball is one of the most popular games at McGill, and bids fair to be one of the most important of minor sports at the University is the fact that during the past session over 250 men were at one time or another engaged in the game.

The interclass competition which was won by Med. '25, after a hard fought game with the Arts freshmen, involved twenty-one teams. The series commenced at the beginning of November, and was brought to a successful conclusion at the end of January. A straight schedule was adopted, and was worked through without a hitch. Lack of accommodation was the only unfortunate part of the year's work. Through the courtesy of the Protestant Board of School Commissioners, the games were played in the gymnasium of the High School of Montreal, University Street, and Baron Byng School, St. Urbain St.

On account of the large number of teams entered in the interclass series it has been proposed that the schedule be run off on the group system, the winner of one group to play off with the winner of the other. This system will, in all probability, be adopted.

The interfaculty competition, which is being run on the sudden death system, is not yet complete, but it is evoking considerable interest on the part of the students.

McGill has also entered two teams in the City League, the Reds and the Whites. From all indications, at least one of these teams will be returned champions at the conclusion of the series.

Early this season, it was proposed to form an Intercollegiate Indoor Baseball League. The Students' Council had set apart enough money to pay for a trip, and the Department of Physical Education had given its sanction to the matter. Toronto had also agreed to enter such a league if formed, but the question had to be dropped, due to the fact that Queen's could not see its way clear to enter a team.

It is fully expecetd, however, that this season's efforts will see fruition in the forthcoming year, and since McGill has more than twice as many teams in operation as Toronto, there is every chance that another intercollegiate championship will go to McGill.

PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY.

The last meeting of the Philosophical Society for this year will be held in Strathcona Hall, on Wednesday, April 4 at 8 p.m. A new executive will be elected, after which the conflict between "Free Will and Determinism" will be discussed.

The problem of "Freedom of the Will" has commanded the attention of thinkers of all ages, and is still considered by many a moot question. As an introduction Dr. Hickson will state the nature of the problem, and two members of the Society will initiate the discussion by considering a few arguments for and against the doctrine of Freedom. The floor will then be available to anyone.

A cordial invitation is extended to theological students, and to all others having an interest in and ideas upon this subject.

PSYCHOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Psychological Society will be held on Wednesday, April 11th, at 8.15 p.m. in Strathcona Hall. The principal business of the meeting will be the election of officers and report of this session's activities. The prizes for the essay competition will be awarded and the winner of the first prize will read his or her paper at the meeting.

FENCING.

Fencing every afternoon 4.30—6.30, in the Diocesan Gym., and on Fridays at 7.30 p.m., beginning next Friday. Both foil and epee fencing. Rules and particulars regarding the proposed competition can be obtained, when ready, from C. R. Fielding, in the Diocesan College, phone Up. 1475. More members urgently needed with or without experience, apply without delay. Fencing can be taken instead of gymnasium.

NOTICE.

The chairmen of the various graduation committees are asked to be at the Union to-day at 5 o'clock. "Hammy" Hamilton will be there.

BIG THEATRE NIGHT CROWNED WITH SUCCESS

Pleasant things have a habit of ending sadly, and the wife of the patient arriving on the scene sees her husband and the fair nurse together, so with little time wasted she bundled her husband off.

The Faculty of Arts skit, "Freshmen Beware," was a burlesque of a truly successful type. It took place in a cabaret. There was some very clever comedy, and the songs composed by E. W. Willard were an unqualified success. The female parts were all exceptionally well taken, Dudley Wilson's "Runna Big-bil" being especially worthy of mention. There was some very clever dialogue.

"Some Class to Us," by the Faculty of Law, was a parody on a University class-room, where the uproar took place that is supposed to be characteristic of such places.

The acting of Jon Robinson and Syd. Pierce was highly deserving of mention.

One of the best acts of the evening was put on by the R.V.C. "Husband Trapping '36." The plot is that the R.V.C. in 1936 is a college given over to the science of Husband Trapping. The dialogue points out that all that is needed in securing a husband is technique. The choruses in this act were splendid and very well costumed. The features of the skit were the dancing of the Misses Green, McWatters, Grigg and Heigberg in the Tango and the dance to the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers. The ensemble at the end was sung with great spirit.

Lux McCullough introduced the captains of the different teams in the Athletic Review. These were ten in number and brought their respective trophies with them on the stage. This was one of the most popular features of the whole show, and brought down the house. "Nuts" Nutting ended the Review by leading the McGill yell.

The Meds. put on the best act of the evening, "The Valley of the Kings." The act was an uproarious farce from start to finish. It was a satire on the recent discovery of Tutankhamen's tomb in Egypt by Lord Carnarvon. The negro comedy at the beginning was splendid, and especially fine were the two songs "Makin' Hist'ry" and "Teetankhamen," sung by a quartet.

During the act King Tutankhamen comes to life and deplores conditions in general, finally announcing that King Cook is his direct descendant. The skit ended with King Cook's appearance on the stage for the final chorus.

In this act the work of the following is particularly worthy of mention:—Dier, O'Regan, Lloyd, Scott, Alward and Fife. Also Crocker, Leech, and Tidmarsh, who composed the music and words, which has been published in book form and may be obtained on application to the Union.

The orchestra's presentation of Nocturne from "Midsummer Night's Dream" was well rendered, but due to the fact that part of the music was necessarily soft, the audience became somewhat restless, and did not give the musicians a very fair chance.

The act which deserves especial mention as being full of pep and dash was that staged by the Physical Eds., ably assisted by a male chorus of ten. From the first chorus to the last bow they carried on in truly finished manner, and earned the applause with which they were loudly acclaimed. A dance given by the Misses Dorothy Burrel, Doris Bain, Estelle Little and Gertrude Lehan was exceptionally well performed; the lighting was good, and all colours of the rainbow were flashed on the quartet as they went through their ballet. After the final chorus one of the fair dancers received a bouquet from some unknown admirer.

Les Perry, with witty sketches of Sir Arthur Currie, Prof. Leacock, "Hammy" Hamilton and others entertained the audience for a few minutes between the acts. The next skit, "Behind the Beyond," was well presented, but being of a rather long drawn out nature, did not receive as good attention as it was worthy of. Prof. Matthews and Mr. T. A. Taylor acted their parts well, while Prof. Lloyd's reading was faultless.

The Science presentation, entitled: "Spirit, Sparks and Spirit," was the next item of the programme. The plot was very simple, and went to prove that the spirit of McGill lives forever; the electrical effects were very clever, and depicted a duel between two demons who fought with sparkling swords.

From Commerce came "a witless, plotless, nonsensical farce," as was announced on the programme. The characters presented a strange contract in size, and this caused much amusement. "Windy" Brewer presented a clever little dance, which was foolishly funny, while Blake Wilson was good in a humourous monologue.

As a fitting cimax to the evening, came the "Jazz Revue," by some of the best dance musicians in the college, led by "Chub" LeBaron. Three pianos were used in this act, and the whole audience gave its support to the excellent renderings. Following the music, a very hearty McGill yell was given before the students were content to disperse.

Now Biggs Gets to Class On Time!

AN exciting tale of adventure might be written about the hunting expeditions Biggs used to make after the elusive cap of his old tube of shaving cream. For months Biggs was late to class because he spent valuable minutes scouring the corners of the bathroom for a cap that persisted in getting lost.

But those troubles are over. For Biggs has started using Williams' Shaving Cream, which comes in a tube with a hinged cap that can't get lost. You see pictured here this cap which saves his time and patience and which will do the same for you.

The convenience of the Hinged Cap would alone be ample reason for your using Williams'. But when you consider that in addition Williams' is good for your skin, and is the most remarkable beard softener known, then it does seem that you would be missing a good deal in getting along without it. Buy a tube and see if it isn't vastly better.

AIR FORCE TRAINING FOR MEMBERS OF THE C.O.T.C.

1. COURSE—

A course in aeronautics will be held at the training station of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and will consist of three terms each of from three and a half to four months' duration (approximately May 15th to September 1st) in three consecutive years.

2. ELIGIBILITY—

To be eligible for selection a candidate must be—

(a) A member of the C.O.T.C., who has performed the requisite qualifying service and passed the practical examination for certificate "A" C.O.T.C.
(b) Following a course of study as an undergraduate leading to a degree in Applied Science.
(c) Physically fit for Air Force Service as a pilot.
(d) Unmarried.
(e) Under 21 years of age at the commencement of the course.
(f) Recommended by the Military Committee of the University as likely to become an efficient Air Force Officer.
(g) Give an undertaking to complete the whole course.

Before attending the second term the candidate will be required to be in possession of certificate "A" C.O.T.C.

3. STATUS—

During the period that candidates are in attendance at the Royal Canadian Air Force training station, they will be granted temporary commissions as provisional Pilot Officers, and will receive pay and allowances in accordance with Pay and Allowance Regulations for the Canadian Air Force. The proposed rates are as follows:—

Pay During the first term .....$3.00 per day.
During the second term .....$3.50 per day
During the third term .....$4.00 per day.

Allowances—While travelling to and from the Royal Canadian Air Force training station, candidates shall receive free transportation and a travelling allowance of $5.00 a day.

4. MESSING—

Candidates will be required to live in the Officers' Mess while at the Royal Canadian Air Force training station. The mess will draw a free ration on behalf of each candidate, but in addition the candidate will be required to pay a mess bill to cover the additional cost of messing of approximately 75 cents per diem.

5. QUARTERS, UNIFORM & MEDICAL ATTENTION—

While under training, candidates will be provided with uniform, Camp equipment and quarters; free medical and hospital treatment will be given.

6. QUALIFICATIONS—

On completion of the course candidates will be eligible for:—

(a) Appointment as Pilot Officers in the Royal Canadian Air Force for permanent duty (the number of vacancies for such appointments will, in all probability, be very limited).
(b) Appointment as Pilot Officers in the Canadian Air Force for active duty twenty-eight days in every two years and in emergency.
(c) Transfer to the reserve of officers, in which case they will not be liable for further service except in time of emergency.

7. APPLICATIONS—

Names of candidates will be submitted by the Military Committee of the University concerned through the District Commander so as to reach Defence Headquarters, Ottawa, not later than April 15th, in 1923, and April 1st, in the following years.

8. 1st COURSE—

A course will commence at the Royal Canadian Air Force Training Depot Station, Camp Borden, Ontario, on May 15th, 1923. Up to thirty candidates will be selected for this course.

Members of the McGill C.O.T.C. who wish to go should turn in their names to this Orderly Room as soon as possible.

WOMEN OF McGILL HAVE HAD A BANNER SESSION

Unprecedented Activity in All Lines of Endeavour—Intercollegiate Hockey, Basketball and Debating Featured —Many Participants.

The year 1922-23 has been a most important one in the annals of R.V.C., as it marks the first occasion upon which the women of McGill have entertained the women of 'Varsity and Queen's, who came to Montreal to participate in women's intercollegiate activities. The three universities were represented in basketball contests. 'Varsity and McGill in hockey, Queen's and McGill in intercollegiate debate.

R.V.C. Undergraduate Society

The Undergraduate Society has had a very successful year under the presidency of Miss Kerr.

R.V.C.A.A.

The year 1922-23 will long be remembered in the history of the R.V.C.A.A. chiefly because of the fact that the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball and Hockey Leagues held their meet at McGill for the first time.

The Athletic Association owe a great deal to Miss Slack, and also to Miss Cartwright and Miss Hurlbatt for their helpfulness at that busy time.

The R.V.C. activities in the realm of basketball have been most successful. Besides being victorious in all the games played with local teams, with the exception of Macdonald College, the R.V.C. team has won the Intercollegiate championship, and is the proud owner of the Trophy presented by the Students' Society of McGill for competition in the Women's Intercollegiate Basketball League.

During the months of January and February matches were played with the Y.W.C.A. and the Department of Physical Education for Women. Both these teams were defeated by the R.V.C., the last game with the Physical Eds being very close and most exciting.

The basketball teams from Queen's and Toronto came down to Montreal for the Intercollegiate [illegible] year. The games were played in Convocation Hall on February 22, 23, and 24. 'Varsity and Queen's played the first night, Varsity winning; McGill played Queen's on the second night, McGill winning; McGill played 'Varsity on the third night and in spite of the fact that Miss Slack was unable to play, and that Miss Spier had to leave the floor at half-time on account of an injured knee, the McGill team won, 32-30. On each night exhibition games were played with the Physical Education team.

The R.V.C. Hockey team has also had a very good season. In the City League R.V.C. tied with the Physical Eds. for first place, but were defeated in the play-off, and thus gained second place. In the Intercollegiate game with Toronto R.V.C. suffered defeat due, no doubt, to the splendid skating of the 'Varsity team.

In the Interclass games the Juniors were the champion team so that the outlook for next year is fairly bright. Next year, a special effort will be made to get the Freshies and Sophs to turn out more.

In the Tennis Tournament held in the early part of the year, the individual championship went to Miss Frances Stocking of First Year, while the class championship went to the Seniors. The Seniors were also the champions on Sports Day which was held at the Stadium on October 28th, while the Freshies were again to the fore in the person of Miss Roba Dunton, who was individual champion.

Thus it can easily be seen that in all different activities of the Athletic Association the session 1922-1923 has been a red letter one.

Delta Sigma Society

This year marked the occasion of the first Intercollegiate Debate when Queen's sent representatives to Montreal. The subject selected proved a very interesting one, "Resolved, that Oriental Immigration Be Excluded from Canada", and although Queen's were victorious, Miss Foster, president of Delta Sigma, and Miss Kerr, the speakers chosen by R.V.C., were highly commended for the very able manner in which they presented their side of the question.

R.V.C. S.C.A.

The S.C.A. has had a splendid year under the capable leadership of Miss D. Cross. The year's activities began with the usual tea which is given for the Freshettes in the R.V.C. Common Room. A Stunt Night, which proved a great success, was held in Strathcona Hall for the purpose of raising funds to send delegates to the National Conference held in Toronto during the Christmas vacation.

Société Française

The Société Française has held many successful meetings with Miss A. Roy as president. Interclass French plays were given which showed a great deal of talent. Miss A. Sharples and Miss L. Desbarats were awarded first honors for impromptu speaking in French. The talks were all amusing and the speakers displayed their ability to "parlez français."

The Pink Issue

"The Pink Issue", one of the novelty numbers of the Daily, which made its appearance on February 3rd, was the first occasion upon which every assignment was covered by a woman reporter.

UNION MADE SOCIAL HUB OF COLLEGE

Jazz Teas Prove Welcomed Innovation

DANCES POPULAR

Increase in Number of Banquets Held by Clubs

Standing out prominently in the history of the Union during the past year, is the enviable record of the Cafeteria. From the position of white elephant it has risen to be a source of revenue, through the diligent work of the Union House Committee and cafeteria manager B. C. Rochester and his executive, O. L. McCullough and S. L. Harris have innovated the Jazz Tea which has proved immensely popular. For not only could the students enjoy high-class rag time, but also partake of the delectable pastry made by the chef of the Cafeteria.

Sectional clubs and other organizations have been encouraged to hold their banquets and smokers in the Union, and to this end a Schedule Committee was formed to prevent prominent events clashing on the same night.

At the beginning of the year several changes were made to the building. The Tuck Shop was enlarged and a variety of stock added, with a bigger display of wares for sale. The billiard room underwent changes, which offered more accommodation between tables for the players, and tournaments were held during the session.

Dances, both formal and informal, were patronized to capacity with one exception. The Union House Dance, which was unfortunately scheduled to take place in the midst of an already crowded social season, had to be cancelled for lack of patronage. The House Committee spared nothing to make the series of dances surpass previous year's events. The success of the dances is too well-known to all to need further mention. Here again the cafeteria was called upon, and catered successfully to every dance in the Union this year. In other years outside firms have supplied the refreshments for the formal functions.

The college year was opened with a "rally" smoker, which was packed to the doors, and enabled newcomers to the university to get acquainted with the men prominent in student activities. Later in the year the B. W. & F. held their annual boxing smoker, and recently the final Union Smoker was held to hear the candidates for the presidency of the Students' Council and the House Committee.

Last but not least, were the Church services held on Sunday morning, which were well-attended, and though few in number, showed that the student devotes some time to religious thought.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

The Editor,
McGill Daily:

Sir,—The motion discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Students' Society relative to the lengthening of the session was commendable.

To a self-supportinl student the action of the University authorities in lengthening the course a paltry two weeks seems incomprehensible. It is understood that one of the main reasons adduced is that unless the course is made the same length as that of the United States colleges, McGill will not be accepted for post graduate work in American coleges. With all deference to the authorities it is thought that such a reason will have little or no significance to over 95 per cent of the student body.

Other Canadian Universities finish sooner and the students have the first opportunities for summer employment.

Unless McGill is desirous of practically excluding the student who must earn at least part of his college expenses early action to end the course in Arts, Commerce and Law on April 30th might be appreciated. If necessary extra lectures might be given and it is thought that the student body would give the heartiest support to any such undertaking of the University authorities.

INITIAL COPY OF ANNUAL AT HAND

It was impossible to obtain any further details from the Annual Board members, as they have been very uncommunicative, but the Daily reporter was led to understand that there were many special features in the book which will appeal to both the students and the faculty.

All subscribers are asked to call for their copies as early in the week as possible, as this will lessen the risk of the Annual Board. There is no set time allotted for any of the faculties to call for their book, and some member of the Annual Board will endeavour to be on hand at all times to give the subscribers their volume. The books will come individually wrapped, thus facilitating distribution greatly.

WHO CAN PREVENT IT?

Women are weakening and enfeebling themselves by indulging in masculine pursuits, Dr. Arthur Holmes, professor of psychology at the University of Pnnsylvania, said in a speech recently. He expressed himself as opposed as an educator to anything in which women appeared as men, including such things as rifle range practice, boxing and basketball.

"You hear a great deal about the emancipation of woman nowadays," said Dr. Holmes, "I for one am for it. I wish she would emancipate herself from a lot of her foolish notions. Particularly do I long for a day when she will be free from her present obsession to imitate man in everything and return to her occupation of being feminine, the sphere where she belongs, and where she can have all the liberties she pleases."

THE VAGABOND

You have no cent in your pocket,
No friend you can call your own;
The chill rains wet you through and through,
The wind cuts straight to the bone.

Lonely and lonesome as always,
No place you can rest your head;
To those who live all around you,
You are little more than one dead.

Wasting your way through a lifetime,
Your last years spending in vain;
Famished and hungry, as always;
You take up your begging again.

At the end when you leave forever
This place that folks call the earth,
They lay you away with this label:
"Unknown—the place of his birth."
